Berenberg Merger Arbitrage F A

Actively managed market-neutral strategy

Investment Strategy

The Berenberg Merger Arbitrage is an equity-based absolute return fund that pursues a specialised merger arbitrage strategy. The fund aims to achieve absolute returns while protecting investors' capital by exploiting price differences arising from publicly announced mergers, acquisitions, corporate restructurings or similar transactions. The fund aims to achieve long-term capital growth and outperform the money market (as measured by the €STR). The fund's investment strategy aims to generate attractive absolute returns, regardless of general stock market performance. Due to its historically low correlation with traditional market indices, the fund offers investors diversification within the overall portfolio. Through broadly diversified investments in various M&A transactions, sectors and regions, the fund aims to achieve a stable risk/return profile with low volatility. The investment strategy aims to exploit inefficiencies in the pricing of company acquisitions and mergers and is based on the difference between the market price of a target company and the announced acquisition price.

Performance

In accordance with the EU regulation "MiFID" (Markets in Financial Instruments Directive), as well as its implementation in national law, information on performance may only be shown if it covers a period of at least 12 months.

Fund management comment

As of month-end, the Berenberg Merger Arbitrage Fund is fully invested across 44 positions: 37% Europe, 52% North America, and 11% APAC. Following a volatile late summer, we look back on a number of successful deal completions, including B&S Group, Informatica, Vimeo and Andlauer, demonstrating the continued constructive deal momentum. Bavarian Nordic once again remained in focus – following a price increase ("bump") in the previous month, the stock saw a pullback after the rejection of the Nordic Capital/Permira offer, which many market participants had viewed as low. Our core positions, Covestro and Kellanova, are approaching completion. Covestro received EU approval and was fully completed from a regulatory perspective in November; Kellanova is also progressing in a targeted manner. In hindsight, both transactions were more volatile than expected, with the fund's early conviction contributing to the volatility. New deal announcements – including the leveraged buyout of Electronic Arts for USD 55 billion announced in the previous month, the largest of its kind ever – underscore broad market confidence in the regulatory and financing environment. European mid-market transactions are offering attractive spreads amid supportive macroeconomic and credit conditions. The framework remains highly robust, and the outlook for 2026 is extremely constructive.

Opportunities:

- Attractive potential returns on stocks in takeover situations
- Stocks involved in takeovers generally demonstrate greater stability compared to broader market trends
- Potential additional returns through analysis of individual stocks and situations and active management
- Consistent hedging of currency risks

Risks

- A stocks may fall below the purchase price at which it has been acquired
- Equities are highly volatile and subject to price losses
- Equities may temporarily underperform in takeover situations
- The success of individual stock analysis and active management is not guaranteed
- The use of derivatives to facilitate certain investment management techniques, including building both 'long' and 'synthetic short' positions and creating market leverage to increase a fund's economic exposure beyond the value of its net assets, may cause the funds' overall risk profile to increase
- A positive return is not guaranteed. The performance of a merger arbitrage strategy may diverge from broader equity market trends, as both upward and downward stock price movements can affect its overall value
